Smile, please!

Photographers always insist that we smile when our photo (0) being taken. But what (9) we don't feel like smiling? Yet few of us would dare not to when we hear the words, 'Smile, please!'

(10) do we expect other people to smile for the camera? Because we feel uncomfortable if they don't. When we look (11) a photo of an event, we want to remember the occasion as having been (12) happy one. How can you tell whether someone's smile is genuine (13) not? Well, cheeks and lips will be raised, and eyes will crinkle at (14) corners.

We don't just smile when we're happy, however. We also smile in order (15) appear open to new acquaintances, provide a positive first impression of ourselves, or soften awkward situations. (16) is nothing like smiling to help us get ahead both personally and professionally, and its positive effects can even help us live longer.
