

I enjoy the crossword in The Guardian.

I enjoy doing the crossword in The Guardian.

It's not a good idea to an enemy of Clare.

It's not a good idea to make an enemy of Clare.

We had better start preparations for the party.

We had better start making preparations
for the party.

Pete has a great deal of damage already.

Pete has done a great deal of damage already.

It's your turn to the washing-up tonight.

It's your turn to do the washing-up tonight.

The boy promised to his best in the test.

The boy promised to do his best in the test.

She her exercises every morning
before work.

She does her exercises every morning
before work.

Pat doesn't appreciate being a fool of.

Pat doesn't appreciate being made a fool of.

I friends with some people from Germany while I was travelling to Budapest.

I made friends with some people from Germany while I was travelling to Budapest.

They find it difficult to ends meet.

They find it difficult to make ends meet.

Mum has promised to a cake
for the party.

Mum has promised to make a cake
for the party.

A man phoned earlier to an appointment.

A man phoned earlier to make an appointment.

He asked me what I for a living.

He asked me what I did for a living.

Our neighbours are always noise.

Our neighbours are always making noise.

Can't you at least an effort?

Can't you at least make an effort?

It appears that she a fortune when she was living in Japan.

It appears that she made a fortune when she was living in Japan.