

model:

You didn't watch the news so you didn't know there was a train strike. →

If I had watched the news, I would have known there was a train strike.

You work long hours and you can't spend much time with your family.

If I didn't work long hours, I could spend more time with my family.

You wanted to travel abroad but you forgot to renew your passport.

If I had renewed my passport, I could have travelled abroad.

You can't drive a car so you can't get around easily.

If I could drive a car, I could get around easily.

You wanted to play tennis but you broke your racquet.

If I hadn't broken my racquet, I could have played tennis.

You want to go swimming but you have lost your swimming costume.

If I hadn't lost my swimming costume, I could go swimming.

You want to climb the mountain but you are afraid of heights.

If I weren't/wasn't afraid of heights, I could climb
the mountain.

You didn't set your video correctly so you didn't record the film.

If I had set my video correctly, I would have recorded the film.

You want to go out tonight but you haven't got enough money.

If I had enough money, I could go out tonight.

You want to cook an Italian meal but you have no
pasta left.

If I had some pasta, I would cook an Italian meal.